

BUSINESS MODEL

Harnessing advanced technologies and service capabilities to provide customers with comprehensive support in achieving sustainable facility operations

Business Overview

Comprehensive support encompassing building facility maintenance, operation, and management, facility and environmental diagnosis, solution formulation, and renewal projects

Solution formulation anchored in abundant experience and technological competency

When called on to address any facility-related issues or challenges, Nippon Air Conditioning Services' teams of expert engineers available throughout Japan pursue meticulous interviews and on-site investigations and suggest solutions optimized for each customer's specific circumstances. In doing so, based on the company's track record of success in resolving numerous issues for its customers, our engineers have built up a wealth of expertise they can draw on to tackle new challenges.

Nippon Air Conditioning Services Three key advantages

1

Advanced technological capabilities

Nippon Air Conditioning Services is particularly adept at managing facilities that house special environments or require extremely clean air along with precise temperature control, such as large hospitals, research institutes, commercial centers, and production and manufacturing facilities. Drawing on its know-how and technological capabilities refined over the course of more than half a century, the company provides not only superb facility maintenance and management services, but also proposals and solutions for each of its wide-ranging customers. This support meets the specific needs of each client, and fully considers the client's environmental action plans and energy conservation requirements.

2

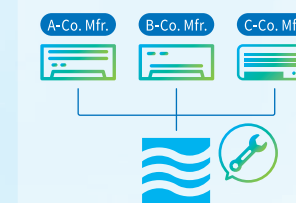

Independence from manufacturers

Each facility that entails a special operating environment is comprised of wide-ranging types of apparatuses, instruments, and devices. As Nippon Air Conditioning Services is a maintenance service provider that operates independently of any manufacturer conglomerate, it is free to provide the most appropriate services in a flexible manner.

3

Vast service network

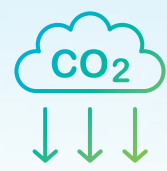

Nippon Air Conditioning Services operates offices in all 47 prefectures across Japan and in countries throughout Asia, each with its own service staff. Upon request, they can provide support to customers swiftly from each of the locations.

One-stop service

Cost saving

Energy efficiency

and more...

Nippon Air Conditioning Services provides services optimized to meet the specific needs of each customer.